

Sandoval names transition advisory team

November 29, 2010

SUBMITTED NEWS RELEASE

Governor-elect Brian Sandoval announced today his selection of 29 Nevadans to serve on his transition advisory team. The diverse group of community leaders from across Nevada will provide input and feedback to the governor-elect on a wide range of issues.

“I want to thank each and every member of the Transition Advisory Team for stepping forward and agreeing to help me get Nevada working again,” Sandoval said. “As I’ve said before, it will take a tremendous amount of effort and teamwork to get the job done, and I believe this team will help us get off to a great start.”

The advisory team, drawn from across the state, includes individuals from the fields of education, budget, gaming, business, construction and economic development among others. The complete team includes:

Aldo Aguirre, Ph.D., principal, Alianza Consulting Group

Barbara Smith Campbell, former chairman, Nevada Tax Commission; owner/managing partner, Consensus LLC

Bill Bible, former state budget director, Governor Richard Bryan; former chairman, Gaming Control Board, Governor Bob Miller; former president, Nevada Resort Association; member, MGM Resorts International Board of Directors

Brett Coleman, venture capitalist, investor; owner, Mercedes Benz of Reno

Brian Krolicki, lt. governor

Chris Collins, executive director, Las Vegas Police Protective Association

Dean Rhoades, Nevada State Senator

Denny Voreck, deaf and hard of hearing teacher, Liberty High School, Henderson; founder, Clark County Democratic Deaf Caucus

Duncan Lee, president, RDL Investments; trustee and advisor, Las Vegas Asian Chamber of Commerce

Estela Gutierrez, president, Washoe County School District Board of Trustees

Dr. Gail Jaquish, co-founder, Jaquish & Kenninger Foundation

Heath Morrison, superintendent of schools, Washoe County School District

Jay Barrett, officer and board member, Marnell Companies

Jim Gibson, former mayor, City of Henderson; president, VEGAS.com

Joe Crowley, former president, University of Nevada, Reno

Ken Wiles, managing director, Acceleron Group

Michael Yackira, president and CEO, NV Energy; member, Board of Trustees, Las Vegas Chamber of Commerce

Monte Miller, CEO, Key-State Corporation Management

Patricia Mulroy, general manager, Las Vegas Valley Water District and Southern Nevada Water Authority

Rick Reviglio, owner, Western Nevada Supply

Rick Trachok, shareholder, Jones Vargas, Reno

Scott Nielsen, executive vice president and chief development officer, Station Casinos

Somer Hollingsworth, president and CEO, Nevada Development Authority

Steve Hill, sr. vice president, CalPortland Company; member, Board of Trustees, Las Vegas Chamber of Commerce

Tammy Dermody, owner, Walton's Family of Funeral Homes

Terri Janison, president, Clark County School Board of Trustees

Terry Johnson, former Nevada State Labor Commissioner

Tom Kerr, senior vice president, North American Operations, Newmont Mining Corporation

Tony Alamo, Sr., former executive, Mandalay Resort Group

The team, which joins Heidi Gansert and Dale Erquiaga, previously named transition director and assistant transition director, respectively, will meet approximately three times with additional input through committees to be named.